January 2011

Dear Friends,

Thank you for helping the people of Haiti during the devastating 7.0 earthquake last January. I was there and saw the suffering and destruction. Hundreds of thousands were injured. More than 200,000 were killed. And over one million children and families were left homeless and struggling.

You responded and made such a difference. Thank you for caring.

Your generous gifts and loving prayers enabled World Vision to help save countless lives in Haiti and to continue long-term support for thousands of survivors still fighting to reclaim their lives.

World Vision has worked for more than three decades in Haiti which allowed us to be on the ground distributing relief within hours of the quake. Our faithful supporters are helping us continue to provide assistance to those in need:

- Feeding more than one million hungry survivors
- Healing tens of thousands through hospitals and health clinics
- Reuniting hundreds of separated children with their families
- Restoring thousands of hurting children through Child-Friendly Spaces

We owe you such a debt of gratitude, and thank God for all your help. See all that has been accomplished in the last year at www.worldvision.org/HaitiUpdate.

Our work is far from over. The recent cholera outbreaks in Haiti have underscored the urgent need that still exists. World Vision is committed to being there as the people of Haiti rebuild and recover.

The tearful faces of the children still live in my mind. As you remember Haiti and the lives you've touched, please pray for the children and families in this hard-hit country.

Thank you and God bless you,
